CAT'S DEATH RELEASES LARGE BOSTON ESTATE

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—A cat having died, $25,000 is thrown into the courts for disposition. Eighteen years ago, Miss Ellen F. Barnard left her estate in trust for her pets—seven cats, two dogs, two canaries, a parrot and a cockatoo. "Mewy," a cat, survived all the rest and stood in the way of succession to the estate of Mrs. Leslie Wood Bond, to whom it was to go on the death of the pet. Now, with the cat gone, eight nephews and nieces, cut off with $10 each, seek equal shares in the estate, contending that their aunt was of unsound mind and was influenced in making her will by Charles W. Bond, a lawyer, and by the subsidiary legatees, his wife. Trial of the contest began before a superior court jury today.

PREMIER MAKES COUNTER ATTACK

Hon. John Oliver Yesterday Afternoon Followed Leader of Opposition's Speech in Spirited Manner

GOVERNMENT LEADER HAS FLOOR FOR TODAY

Denial Made That Caucus Dictated to Him Who Should Fill Positions in Ministry—Recalled Opponent's Record

SPURRED ON, apparently, by the sharp criticism tendered by Mr. W. J. Bowser in the Legislature yesterday afternoon of the present Liberal Government, Premier Oliver took advantage of the remaining thirty minutes of the session to reply to the charges against his administration levelled by the opposition leader.

Mr. Bowser had the floor yesterday, and for nearly three hours he dealt with the record of the Government. Ordinarily, the House adjourns at 6 o'clock, and there was but a scant thirty minutes left when the opposition leader rose. Instead of adjourning the debate, the Premier went on, and in that brief period he castigated his old-time political opponent.

At 6 o'clock the Premier adjourned the debate, and he will continue this afternoon.

In his opening remarks, the Premier conveyed his congratulations to Mr. Bowser on the latter's physical condition though, he intimated, that he was not prepared to vouch for the mentality of the opposition leader.

"It is a pitiable thing," declared the Premier, "when an ex-Premier of this province, the leader of a great party, who has taken two and three-quarter hours this afternoon with mere gossip which he has picked up on his journeys throughout the province."

This statement by the Premier was induced by Mr. Bowser's attack on the administration of the Liquor Act.

Premier Attacks

"The gentleman has not been noted for the accuracy of his statements," I had the pleasure of hearing the honorable gentleman when he started on his political career in 1919. Failing to secure the party support, he bolted from the then convention and in his entry to provincial politics we had an example of that treachery which he displayed when he put up his latest supporter, the member for Cranbrook, to move the adjournment of the debate. He was knowing he would lose his right to speak because the motion to adjourn the debate, it was certain, would be defeated by the Government.

"When he tells us we dare not bring on an election in Vancouver, my mind goes back to a similar statement made by him prior to the recent by-election. His predictions are all of a piece. He purports to tell us what has been doing in the Liberal caucus. We have in the past six years known the members of the caucus transacted in our executive council has come to his ears."

The Premier did not, however, suggest by whom the information was conveyed of the inside workings of the Government to the opposition leader.

"I want the opposition leader to understand we are not interested in Government by caucus," declared the Premier, who, however, admitted that at no time had the Government suggested that they would not hold caucus sessions as they saw fit. He brought up the old charge of the late government passing orders-in-council, not based on legislative authority, and he cited in support of his argument the special warrant for $105,000 issued by the late Government in connection with the Songhees Reserve; the $100,000 order on the Kwantlen Reserve, $30,000 of which, he claimed, passed into the hands of a friend of the opposition leader.

Contradicts Charge

The Premier, with heightened declamation, declared that the opposition leader's statement, that the Liberal caucus in January had directed him, the Premier, to select a certain two members as ministers, was absolutely false.

"I leave it to you, Mr. Speaker, if my friend has not belittled and demeaned himself by his speech this afternoon. We all admire his flow of language, his satire, and the grotesque and ridiculous aspect he makes his language convey. He pictures this Province in a desperate financial condition. When we look over the record of the Government in 1916 we find that one of the first things the bankers asked of us when we took power was what was going to be our fiscal policy. They told us we could not borrow to make up our deficits. In fact, in such a desperate position had the late Government left the Province that we were forced to impose a surtax—a double tax—to meet our financial demands."

The Premier quoted from a circular issued by the Bank of Commerce, one from which the opposition leader had quoted, to show that the latter's derogatory remarks concerning the financial condition of the Province were not warranted. He pointed out that in 1916, the last year of the Conservative Government, there had been a total ordinary revenue of $4,291,434, and a total expenditure on ordinary accounts of $10,063,506, a deficit of nearly $4,000,000.

"Yet in the face of this desperate condition which he, as Premier, left this Province, he now chides us with going to the bank, hat in hand, to seek loans."

The improvement in the financial situation of the Province as demonstrated by the 1921 figures, was referred to by the Premier, who pointed out that in that year the ordinary revenue was $4,219,244, and the ordinary expenditure $15,236,921, or a deficit of but $17,000 compared with the $4,000,000 in 1916.

Not Worthy of Confidence

"He seeks to create a false position," declared the Premier, heartily endorsing his words. "Such statements are utterly unworthy of a man who aspires to be Premier of the Province. I feel those who heard him this afternoon will go away feeling he is not the man in whom they can place their confidence."

The Premier resented Mr. Bowser's sneers at the efforts of the Government to secure the removal of the discriminatory freight rates. He admitted that the political element had entered into the question at Ottawa because the Progressives there, being in a commanding position in the House, had been able to secure their removal. But, he claimed, that in the past year and a half the efforts of the Government to secure more equitable rates had resulted in a reduction of the basic rates of 7 1/2 per cent, and as British Columbia has been paying 50 per cent more in rates than the other provinces, that percentage was all the more important.

The Premier moved the adjournment of the debate until this afternoon.

THIRD MAN ENTERS BANK FRAUDS CASE

ONE BUGAN SAID TO BE MASTER FORGER OF DRAFTS

Lambrinos Still Awaits Sentence, as Alleged Friend of Defendant by Calling Friend as Witness

The prosecution of the two Greek candy-makers, George Rigas, alias Lambrinos, and Jerry Antipas, on charges of uttering forged drafts on local banks, took on a new aspect in the police court yesterday, when Mr. Frank Higgins, K.C., counsel for the accused men, introduced the name of a third Greek, one Alexandro Bagan, as being the actual forger of the fraudulent drafts.

This development arose when Mr. Higgins asked the jury to believe that Lambrinos, who had pleaded guilty to the charges last Wednesday, should be sentenced before Antipas, who is defending himself, and declares himself confident of establishing his innocence, should come to trial. Mr. Higgins said it was not right to keep Lambrinos in the suspense which must result from delay in sentence. He said Bagan, said counsel, who was alleged by Lambrinos to be the man who had come to Victoria with forged drafts of the Commercial Bank of Valjeo, California, upon the Hanover National Bank of New York. These drafts were already made out, as they were later presented by Lambrinos to up-island and Victoria banks, with the result that those banks had been defrauded to the tune of $1,000.

Evidence for Defence

Magistrate Jay said that he would defer the hearing as to Lambrinos. The court thought that the whole matter would be best dealt with if the trial of Antipas took precedence. Of the prosecution, Harrison said that the case against Antipas would depend upon the comparison to be made between the known signature of Antipas and the handwriting upon the forged drafts. If it was found that those hands were the same, it would be necessary to obtain further evidence and another remand must be taken. On the other hand, if the hands were not the same, Mr. Harrison would candidly admit that he would be in duty bound to advise the court that the charge should be withdrawn.

In order to permit the return of the witness to Cumberland, the evidence of Arthur Howard Kierstead, a garage owner of that place, was taken. This evidence was strongly on the side of the accused men. The witness had known Antipas for two or three years, during which time the latter had owned a candy store in Cumberland.

Police Hunt Bagan

Antipas was staying with Kierstead last week, when Lambrinos phoned over to Cumberland from Courtenay, to obtain a motor car to drive to Victoria. The witness turned the matter over to Antipas, who arranged the trip, and on Friday of last week drove Lambrinos down to Victoria, on the trip on which it is alleged the man successively uttered nine forged drafts on banks of Cumberland, Nanaimo, Duncan and Victoria.

The witness turned the trip over to Antipas, he said, because he could not make it himself. He had to meet his wife, who was coming to Nanaimo, on her return from an Eastern trip. The arrangement was that Antipas was to return from taking Lambrinos to Victoria, meet Mr. and Mrs. Kierstead in Nanaimo and take them home to Cumberland. At Nanaimo, said the witness, he waited in vain for the missing man and car, until he found that Antipas was held in jail here on the forged charges, as an alleged accomplice of Lambrinos.

Lambrinos had formerly worked for Antipas in Cumberland, said Kierstead, but left the place two or three weeks ago. The witness gave Antipas a good character. The case will be called again this morning, when it is expected that Mr. Harrison will be in a position to decide whether the prosecution of Antipas shall go forward or be withdrawn. In the meantime, the local police authorities are taking steps to gain further information as to Bagan, the man accused by Lambrinos of being the master crook in charge of these daring operations.

CHATHAM, Nov. 2. — Declaring that motorists should have the same protection as pedestrians, Police Magistrate Arnold predicts the time will come when pedestrians will be responsible for automobile accidents.

The champion of the returned soldier in the House considered the government remiss in its duty in looking after the veterans. He considered it possible for the public works department to give employment to these men during the Winter months in order that they could rehabilitate themselves.

The returned soldier had not received a square deal from the Government, contended Colonel Johnson.

Removable Abscess of the hip, showing three operations without success.

Our Patient is of Mrs. LAMBSON, of West's Mill, Weymouth, Sussex, England, who writes:—
"I am writing to tell you of the benefit I have received from your Clark's Blood Mixture. I had a deep-seated abscess in my hip and was laid up about fourteen months and did nothing. I was in hospital nine months and had three operations. Still I was no better, and I asked to come home. I had been home three weeks still feeling very ill, so I thought I would try your Clark's Blood Mixture. The first bottle I used felt very good. I had taken half the second bottle I began to feel better, and the abscess began to get less. I persevered with the mixture, and after a few weeks began to get about a little on my feet. I am now feeling much stronger, and now I am feeling better than I have done for years. The abscess is quite healed—I can now do my work and walk quite a long distance with a stick. I am very much obliged to you for the Clark's Blood Mixture. It has truly been a life-saver. You can make whenever you use this mixture."

CLARK'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood-purifying properties, can be relied upon to give newly created and lasting health to those of feeble, Bad Luck, Abscesses, Ulcers, Sores, Pimples, Eruptions, Scabies, Gout, Rheumatism, and all other ailments. POPPY DAY BALL TO MARK ARMISTICE

G. W. V. A. Will Sell Flowers Made by Disabled Veterans of British Columbia

Permission has been given to officers attending the Great War Veterans' Armistice Eve Ball at the Empress Hotel ballroom to wear uniforms for the occasion. Those who do not desire to wear uniforms may wear the miniature war medals on their civilian clothes if they so desire. The Great War Veterans emphasize the importance of observance of Armistice Day and learn with pleasure that more importance is being attached this year to a proper observance of the day on which hostilities in the greatest war of history ceased. They regard Armistice Day as a fitting time for tribute to those who made the supreme sacrifice on the fields of Flanders or in any other war, whilst the evening of the day, they believe, should mark rejoicings as signifying a time when many of them, after years of separation and uncertainty, were at last faced with the sure prospect of a return to their home and friends.

By the Poppy Day and poppy ball they combine these two observances and at the same time assist many of their comrades who are still suffering from the effects of war. Poppy Day, the number of 75,000 have been made by disabled veterans of British Columbia, and in response to a letter received from Mr. Hugh Thompson, president of the Disabled Veterans' Association, Vancouver, the Victoria local of the Great War Veterans' Association has not behind their effort to sell a large quota of these poppies on Armistice Day to perpetuate Poppy Day throughout Canada and at the same time to aid the disabled veterans.

WEDDINGS

Jolley-McKie

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday at the Reformed Episcopal Church between James W. Jolley, second son of Mr. Charles Jolley, of Gabriola Island, and Gladys McKie, daughter of the late Mr. I. R. McKie, M.I.C.E., of England. The Rev. A. deB. Owen officiating. The bride, who looked charming in her traveling costume, was given away by her uncle, Mr. E. P. McKie; Mrs. Austin acting as matron of honor and Mr. Hugh McKie as best man. A reception, followed by a luncheon, was afterwards held at the house of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. McKie, 821 Phoenix Place, the bride and bridegroom leaving later on the boat for Seattle and Tacoma. Their future residence will be on Gabriola Island.

TENNIS CLUB DANCE

Last night the Kingston Street Lawn Tennis Club held its opening dance of the winter season at the Knights of Columbus Hall, which was attended by a large number of guests. The reception committee included Mrs. List, Mrs. Witter and Mrs. Foster, and the lady members of the club undertook the arrangements for the supper which was served later in the evening. Heaton's orchestra supplied a splendid programme of dance music, and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all who were present.

Marks Anniversary

A large crowd of friends gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Levy on Wednesday evening at 1825 Pemberton Road, to celebrate the completion of forty years of married life. This included the formal presentation of a beautiful silver candelabra from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the I.O.B.B., made by Mrs. Osborn, and of a fine tea wagon with silver inscription thereon from the Emmanuel congregation of this city, which was made by Mr. I. Waxman, accompanied by a very appropriate speech. Responses were made by the recipients, who were both visibly affected by these marks of the esteem and regard in which they were held. Refreshments were served during the evening, and a programme of music, singing and games were enjoyed by those present. Mrs. Osborn, by request, sang the Canadian song, "My Old Dutch." Others taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leiser, Mrs. K. Davis, the Misses Albhouse, Mrs. H. H. Levy, and Mrs. A. Lanoster, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lanoster, Mr. and Mrs. J. Levy, Rev. A. Levinson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Leiser, Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Kneer, Mr. and Mrs. H. Mallick, Mrs. L. A. Merlacher, of Vancouver, Mr. E. P. Nathan, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Nodok, Mrs. H. A. The Aberdeen Party

A very pleasant Halloween dance was held at the "Aberdeen" on Tuesday last, when Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Anderson entertained the guests of the house and friends to the number of fifty. The reception-rooms and hall were beautifully decorated in orange and black, and a standard lamp was converted into an enormous pumpkin. In the private sitting-room, which was turned into a veritable witch's den, Mrs. Muriel, who was disguised as a witch, told wonderful fortunes and prophesied splendid futures to her many patrons. Mrs. Whitaker and Miss Scott were responsible for the beautiful color scheme and decorations, and received many well-deserved compliments. Supper was served at 11 o'clock, and the party broke up at 1:30 to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne." This is the first of a series of little dances which it is hoped will be held at the "Aberdeen" during the coming winter months.

Made Presentation

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. A. B. Armstrong entertained a number of charter members of the Victoria Ladies' Swimming Club in honor of Mrs. R. H. The following were present: Mesdames Armstrong, Switzer, Bentley, McAllister, Catterall, North, Matheson, Hiberson, Plumb, Mennell, Siedler, Stott, H. W. KEATING

Halloween Party

The Halloween party arranged by the Girls' Club of Keating, Junior members of the South Saanich Women's Institute, and held at the Temperance Hall on Tuesday evening, was a pronounced success. The hall was appropriately decorated with yellow and black streamers, while large yellow crests adorned with black cats and witches were placed at intervals along the walls. Ghostly music and a large black cat were among the other decorations on the stage. Mr. W. Mitchell acted as master of ceremonies, and games, dancing, kept the guests well amused. The following soloists rendered pleasing selections: Miss E. Nimmo, Mr. Connerville and Mr. W. White. A guest by the Misses G. Young and Florence Hamilton was much enjoyed, while a trio was given by the Misses Gold, Nimmo and Sherring. Members of the club, in ghostly attire, with their height increased to about eight feet, looked rather awesome as they appeared before the audience and sang in mournful tones. "The Sneak." They also sang other chorus numbers, for which they were warmly applauded. Tables in an adjoining room were decorated with Jack-o'-lanterns and laden with a variety of good things, including dainty baskets of candy and nuts. As the young people were hostesses for the evening, the married couples were requested to seat themselves at the first table, and sixty persons accepted the invitation. The remainder of the guests were served later. Music for dancing was kindly supplied by the Misses Russell, Young and Anderson. The young ladies who were responsible for the evening's pleasure were slightly embarrassed when the guests joined hands and were singing the song, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sluggitt, on Tuesday night, the boys, Willie and Charlie, entertained a few of their schoolmates at a jolly Halloween party. Games were followed by a tempting supper, and the time passed merrily. Apples having a suspicious knife mark around the top aroused much curiosity until it was discovered that each apple was full of nuts and candies. This pleasant surprise was hailed with delight by the small folk, who soon after took their way homeward by the light of a huge Jack-o'-lantern fashioned from a pumpkin.

SCENES OF SPLENDOR
IN CARNIVAL WEEK

Striking Costumes Have Arrived and Rehearsals Becoming Earliest—Many Box Parties

The Fall Carnival to be presented at the Royal Victoria Theatre for three nights and matinee at the end of next week promises to be one of the gayest ever known in the history of Victoria. The rehearsals have been in progress for more than six weeks in the ballroom of the Empress hotel, and every detail has been rehearsed time and again until the smallest child taking part in the fairy scene is absolutely perfect. Many box parties have been arranged and some new and startling gowns will be worn by smart women in the many boxes for the different nights. In some instances season boxes have been taken by well-known social leaders, who will entertain a different party each night. The programme will be changed on the second performance.

All those taking part, and society as a whole, are still wondering who will be the king and queen of the carnival. The king and queen will be crowned at the opening performance, when the great golden key of the city will be presented to the king, queen and the seven hundred people taking part. This brilliant opening will take place on the first night only.

The carnival costumes are being imported from the eastern part of Canada at great cost. They are said to be very gorgeous and brilliant. The Great War Veterans' Association is leaving nothing to be desired in regard to giving Victoria the most lavishly amateur theatrical performance ever presented on a local stage. The costumes will be given out to those taking part the latter part of this week. Two or three dress rehearsals will be held of each set or scene before the first performance. The carnival rehearsals are becoming most strenuous and will be so until the opening night. The mornings are taken up with the many people who are doing the more difficult solo parts, while the afternoons are taken up with the hundreds of children, and the nights up to midnight, are devoted to the grown-ups. Each set or scene is trying to outdo the other, and there is to be a voting contest for the most perfect set or scene. Those taking part will go into the audience and request their friends and relatives to vote on their dance or scene. The scene which receives the greatest number of votes up to and including the last performance will have the privilege of selecting a lady and gentleman from their set or scene to be king and queen of the Fall Carnival ball, to be held in the Empress ballroom on Friday night, November 17. The carnival ball will be the official closing of the carnival season. Those taking part in the show will go to the ball in their carnival costumes. Many scenes of the production will be sung and danced during the progress of the ball. Tickets are now being sold for the ball, which will include a supper in the main dining room of the Empress Hotel. An enlarged orchestra will take place in the large wing-room, the palmatorium and the ballroom. The names of the participants and chaperons, as well as the programme of the carnival will be announced very shortly as well as the official programme of the acts as they will appear on the different nights.

Civil Servants and House Members Present Furore to Mr. Harry Nash, of Parliament Inquiry Office

Mr. Harry H. Nash, 1151 Roslyn Avenue, Oak Bay, for the last fourteen years in charge of the inquiry office of the Provincial Parliament Buildings, was the recipient yesterday of a presentation made to him by Dr. Young, secretary of the Board of Health, in behalf of the civil servants and members of the Legislature, on the occasion of Mr. Nash's retirement on superannuation from his long and faithful service.

In a cordial speech, Dr. Young voiced the esteem in which Mr. Nash was held by his colleagues of the civil service, and by the members of the House. He was that best type of citizen, Dr. Young, who had won the respect of his associates by an undeviating devotion to duty. Mr. Nash had carried on in his services for the Province the tradition he had established in his more robust days, first as one of the original members of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police; then as an Indian agent in Alberta; and later on the field of battle in South Africa.

In a modest speech of acceptance, Mr. Nash thanked the ladies and gentlemen who had participated in the gift to him of a purse. They had always used him well, he said, and he was not able to adequately express what he felt at this testimonial to their friendship for him.

Mr. Nash, who was appointed in 1908 to the position from which he has just retired, was a member of the first detachment of the Mounted Police to cross the plains in 1874, being of the party which in that year made its way from Toronto to Port Moody, Bow River. He later served as a scout of the "Mounted" during the Elsie Rebellions, for which service he was decorated in the field.

For some years after his retirement from Mounted Police service, Mr. Nash acted as Indian agent to the Pelican Agency, Mackenzie, Alberta. In that service he won the respect of the Indians by his firmness and integrity. In those days he was a man of remarkable physical powers, and many stories are current across the bay of the way in which the just and impartial Indian agent enforced the decrees of authority among recalcitrant Indians by the power of a strong and fearless right arm.

Later on, Mr. Nash saw service in the Boer War in the ranks of the Second Canadian Rifles. His health suffered as a result of hardships and accidents met with in that campaign, and he was compelled to seek the more sheltered and less strenuous office which he has filled so faithfully for the last decade.

The presentation yesterday took place beneath the rotunda of the Parliament Building, most of Mr. Nash's colleagues of the civil service and many members of the House and cabinet being present. Dr. Young remarked upon the fact that Mr. Nash had retired voluntarily and that his leaving of the Government service at the age of 64 years was in no sense a matter of routine superannuation.

SKATING CLUB OPENS EVENING SESSIONS

Popular Society Starts New Season With Brighter Prospects Than Usual for Winter Sport

On Monday evening, November 13, at 8:15 o'clock, the Victoria Skating Club will hold its opening meeting. This is the first time the club has felt itself strong enough to arrange for an evening session since the war. Previous to this, at 7:45, there will be held at the rink the usual general meeting for the purpose of electing new officers for the coming season.

People who like figure skating or waiting find that they require a little more ice for the purpose than the numbers at an ordinary session permit, and about the year 1912 a few enthusiasts assembled and founded the Victoria Skating Club.

In the early days skaters were few, and for some time the club had an extremely limited membership. Its original members found themselves responsible not only for its management, but also, it is said, to a large degree, for its solvency. Passing through years of limited support and doubtful prosperity, the club has learnt to stand on its own feet, and is rapidly becoming an asset, not only to its members, but to Victoria.

Visitors who come to Victoria for the winter should find whatever entertainment they desire provided for them here, and the Skating Club is always ready to welcome such. Many who have come in the past have delighted the older members with the skating they bring from the East.

Not, however, in any way necessary to be an expert performer to join or enjoy the club. Many who, either from modesty or alarm, have hesitated to learn to skate at a skating session, have happily solved this difficulty through the club, and this year a great help and incentive will be the attendance of an official skating instructor, ready to aid either the beginner or the more advanced.

So much for the more active members, but there are others. The problem of how to exercise during the winter has to be faced.

The announcement that the club will hold an evening session this season has been greeted most enthusiastically by skaters, and already a large number have signified their intention of joining. Those who wish to join the club are requested to notify the secretary, phone 4856, and address 707 1/2 Fort Street. The future life and success of the Skating Club depend largely on the support which it will receive this year.

ROTARIANS VISIT
BIG LUMBER MILL

Inspected by Sight of Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Company Plant in Operation

Victoria Rotarians toured the big Inner Harbor mill of the Canadian Puget Sound Lumber & Timber Company yesterday as the guest of the management, and had their luncheon in the stockroom, where President Percy Scourrah presided and Rotarian Harry Bly, treasurer of the company, told about the mill and its programme.

After the luncheon the members of the Rotary Club were divided into groups and escorted through the mill by representatives of the company, who explained points of interest. They were introduced by Mr. John D. Klamson, manager, and Mr. D. E. Dawson, superintendent of construction, who has been responsible for the installation of some remarkable equipment during the last few months.

They saw the new wooden traveling crane with a 104-foot sweep, the longest on the Pacific Coast, and constructed entirely of wood. This crane has been in use only about a week and will enable the mill to load lumber from the yards into scows and ships moored alongside the dock with greater facility. In the mill plant itself they viewed the big new feeder saw, which has added about 25,000 feet to the daily capacity of the plant. Scores of improvements and new mechanical units have been added since the mill was taken over about two years ago by the Connor interests. The average daily output of the mill is now 126,000 feet, most of the lumber being shipped to the Canadian prairies. Shipments are averaging about fifty carloads a week, which is considerably more than the majority of mills in the Northwest are handling just now.

The company now employs about 400 men, including the logging camps at Cowichan Lake, the payroll being about $25,000 a month. The completion of the traveling crane and other major devices for increasing the capacity of the mill during the last few weeks should not be taken as an indication that the construction programme is finished, officials of the company said. On the contrary, it was stated that development had just been commenced, and that the condition of the market

Are Your Corsets Comfortable?

They should be, for that is really why you wear them. True corset comfort comes only from accurate designing.

Fullness should be given where fullness is essential. Strong, but flexible, boning must come where it is needed to give easy comfortable support. Hose supporters must have the strength and elasticity to keep the corset always in its proper place.

Warner's
Rust-Proof
Corsets

MADE IN CANADA

are designed by Specialists who know the needs of the figure. Each pattern is fitted, revised, graded, and refitted on living models over and over before it is finally approved. And then, in order that the finished corset will keep its shape and give the service that it should, we hold to long established standards of material and construction.

Consequently Warner's are not the cheapest corsets, but we believe them to be the most economical corsets you can buy.

There are models as low as $1.50, but it pays to buy better corsets, and we recommend $2.00 as a minimum price to pay on the major costs of to-day. At $3.00, $4.00, $5.00 and up, there are other Warner Styles, and at each successive price you will find value for the money paid—in style, comfort, wear, and general satisfaction.

upon Providence. It is unfair to suggest that he is waiting on Providence, as far as possible, before putting his case in print?

Views So Different

"But there is something more under the first subject. After the change he spoke of the condition of the country in this way: Here is a splendid going concern, and the survivors have come to see the profits. Three or four days afterwards, in Glasgow, he painted a true picture of what the condition of the country is—of danger, anxiety and fear of every side. Both these pictures cannot be true. Can a man who in three days expresses views so different, can he know where he is? I am going to give you another example of my simplicity, and there are many who will think it very foolish. I have made no attempt, and intend to make no attempt, to make any bargain with the press. You know, and I know, what the influence of the press is, and I am far from undervaluing it.

"If every newspaper in the country would express its honest opinion, however hostile, to me, I shall neither resent nor retaliate.

Denies Unfairness

"There are two things I wish to say at the outset. There have been suggestions that what has been done to the Unionist party has been unfair to Lloyd George. That is absolutely untrue. I was myself responsible for the arrangements made at the last election, but before doing it I had a meeting with my own party. It was an arrangement obviously intended for one longer; then it was suggested that country will never fail to pay (cheers) that for that reason he has no right to change our minds as to the best method of carrying on the Government but for that reason he is entitled—however our view is—to be Prime Minister for the rest of his life. The charge is absurd.

Breaking Up of Coalition

"There is something else in this connection I should like to say. The view put by those who think that breaking the Coalition is criminal is that it was the only bulwark against Labor. Well, I don't think so. I think, on the other hand, that if you could get what they talked about and desired—all men of good will on one side and the Labor party, among whom there is good will also, on the other, that that was an ideal arrangement. It would do more than the Labor party could do for themselves in twenty years to make them an alternative Government for this country. There is something else. When you talk about men of good will keeping up that kind of an arrangement as a permanent, isn't there something lacking?

If the war had ended with Asquith as Prime Minister instead of Lloyd George, I believe the Coalition would have been with Asquith and his friends with us. That did not happen. We worked very cordially on both sides. Neither has the right to claim anything from the other. We worked very cordially with those called the National Liberals, but when you are painting the kind of a picture I have given you it is really rather difficult to think to look for ever on men like Asquith, Gray and Crewe as typical Bolsheviks of our political life. You could not do that.

Running the Risk

Another thing I should like to say is this. It has been suggested that the Unionist members of the late Government, the Cabinet members and the under-secretaries who went with Lloyd George were noble men, who sacrificed everything to duty. I think they were. I think they did as they ought to have done, precisely as they thought. But what about the others? It is easy—but the day before the Carlton meeting, if you had asked any man in the street who was running the greater risk, those going with Lloyd George or those against, nine out of ten would have said that the greater risk was being run by those going against him.

Break-Up of Coalition

"Now let me say a little more about the break-up of the Coalition. I see Mr. Balfour—I beg his pardon, but I shall never call him anything else—Lord Balfour has been making a speech deploring the death of the Coalition. He was my leader when I first entered the Commons. There is no one for whom I have a greater respect and with whom I am more unwilling to differ. (Applause.) We have differed before, but very seldom, and when we do differ, I consider very carefully whether or not I may have been wrong.

Reply to Lord Balfour

"He pointed to the Coalition as something beautiful which has been wantonly destroyed. That is not a true picture. I wonder if any of you read the story which, when I read the speech, came to my mind? I think it is one of Helms's. In this story a traveler came to a village and found the people in a tremendous state of excitement. He asked what it was all about. He was told by this man and the other, 'It's because of the perfect woman.' He could not understand what they meant, but through the exercise of great energy he succeeded in getting up to the apartment where the perfect woman was. She was stretched upon a couch. He gazed at her with ever-increasing admiration, feeling that everything he could picture to himself was there. She was a perfect woman, but, alas! she was dead. So was the Coalition; believe me, ladies, it was not I who killed it.

Lloyd George's Picture

Now let me look at Lloyd George's picture of the same event. He described it as if there were a peaceful stream with the boat floating calmly along, no breakers ahead, and suddenly an act of sabotage took place and it was destroyed. Then he paints himself in an unusual role. He is the angel of peace. He looks upon that destruction brought about by thoughtless and indiscreet men. He says to himself: 'It is done. What can I do as the angel of peace to prevent the evil growing greater?' It is an unfamiliar role, and I think that as he dressed himself for the part it was so unfamiliar that he made a little mistake. He told us as his first announcement that he was a free man with a sword in his hand.

Knew of Breakers Ahead

"The angel of peace often has knowledge. Nobody knew better than he of the troubled waters ahead; he was swirling in every direction, and that a catarrh was immediately

An Uncertain Role

"It was because he knew that, and for no other reason I can think of, that he decided to have an election before the meeting of our national union; not because he thought the catarrh could be escaped, but because he thought it would be to his advantage to go over after, not before, election. The cause was not intrigue. It was mutiny, as another of his supporters calls it. It was the deep-rooted feeling of constituencies. The real cause of this danger, the fundamental reason for it is that people in this country everywhere felt that under his rule 'We don't know where we are today and cannot tell where we will be tomorrow.'

Nothing Disrespectful

"I am not going to elaborate upon it now. I saw in some newspaper that I was going to make a fighting speech. I do not intend to make a different speech from what I always do. In my early years as the leader of our party I had the reputation of being bitter. I do not know whether it was deserved, but perhaps age has made me mellow—in any case, I have worked with men like Asquith and Lloyd George and some Labor leaders, and however pernicious I may think their policy I know the men, and I am not going to say any personally disrespectful thing to any of them. That's what I want to say at the beginning, as regards policy which I put before you and before the country.

The Cabinet Secretariat

"The first thing I did on assuming this office was to make a change in the cabinet secretariat. It was not done, believe me, mainly on the grounds of economy, though I think there will be considerable economy in it. Everybody who has worked with me knows the value of the services of the cabinet secretariat. When the Geddes commission overhauled the departments, they carefully said that for the work they were called upon to do, the secretariat was not too large and they had no recommendation to make. It is not, therefore, on the ground that it has been an extravagant and wasteful department. I have made that change with the approval of my colleagues because I think that now the whole system ought to be altered if we are to get back to the old customs regarding the essential machinery of government.

Right During War

"Our constitution does not lend itself to dictatorship, but our Prime Minister is really in a tremendously strong position so long as he has the support of the Commons. He recommends the appointment of all ministers. He can use tremendous personal power. During the war we set up a war cabinet. We aimed to have something centralized. That was right in war, but now we come back to normal times, let us do as the Romans did, let us get back to normal machinery.

Defeated Cabinet (Choice)

"My idea of a Prime Minister is that of the man at the head of a big business who allows the work to be done by others, but gives it general supervision. The charge is made on every hand that there is a perfectly incompetent cabinet. I do not think so. Let me examine it. One of the charges made by Lloyd George's chief lieutenant at the moment was a sneer at the number of peers in the present government. First of all, let us look at the facts. At the close of Lloyd George's government, the chief offices of state, six were filled by peers. In the government just formed there are seven, one more, that is all. Under two governments, it was my duty to recommend Unionists for peers. And I say without the smallest hesitation that if it had been a question of merit alone, with neither consideration of what House they sat in, we would have had a larger number of peers than was the case with either of these governments.

"There's another consideration worth while to look at. We have had two additions to that government—the Earl of Derby and the Duke of Devonshire. We also have another who has been in the cabinet before and who will do good work—the Marquis of Salisbury.

Had Declined Office

"Within the last six months each of the two in turn was offered an office in Lloyd George's administration. They declined it. They must have been quite competent; the deterioration since surely has been very rapid. But now we come to those of the Lower House.

"I was surprised at the phrase used by Lloyd George regarding them. He said we had taken them from the kitchen. Well, where did we all come from, politically? One can make, if you like, two distinctions. Let us call the kitchen those who were promoted and the cellar those who were not. Those who have had no office and come to ministerial office, what is the history of my experience in parliament? When Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's government was formed in 1905, that government came not from the kitchen, but from the cellar, and of those, just to mention one or two names, was Lloyd George himself, Lord Haldane, or Mr. Haldane as he was then. Mr. Sinclair, who, I think, became Secretary for Scotland; and the whole lot of them who afterwards became such great men originally came from the cellar, and then gradually from the kitchen to the ministerial office. I think it is a great mistake to suppose that younger men won't do the work efficiently."

"Anecdote and literary reference filled in the latter part of the Prime Minister's speech. He likened Lloyd George to a drummer, valuable in combat, but a detriment to the home and the sick room. His peroration dealt with Conservative policy.

"The Conservative Programme. 'Let me read another extract: "The Conservative party is accused of having no programme or policy. If by programme or policy I mean a policy which assails every institution, every interest, every class, every calling in the country, I admit we have no programme."

"Let me read another extract: "I shall, whether in or out of office, continually endeavor to propose and support all measures calculated to improve the condition of the people of the kingdom. But I do not think that this great end can be advanced by unceasing and harassing legislation. The English people are governed by customs as much as by laws, and there is nothing they more dislike than unnecessary 'restriction' and meddling interference with their affairs."

"Tranquillity and Stability. 'What Disraeli said, I too say. I want tranquillity and stability. I mean to meddle as little as I can, but that does not mean that I am satisfied with the world today, that I wish no change. I mean what he meant. There are times when it is good to sit still and go slowly. The important thing, it appears to me at the moment, is the foreign policy. I put first what is not really a foreign policy—our relations with the Dominions. The Empire changed during the war. It must still in negotiations go as a whole, but there must be closer co-operation with the rest of the Empire. And we must feel that we have the moral support, not of this country alone, but of the whole British Empire. I speak next of our relations with America."

"America and the League. 'There is nothing of trouble on the horizon there. I venture to express the hope that America may gradually take interest in the League of Nations in some form or other; that she may gradually feel that it is her duty to help in the chaos which the war left behind. I say that without criticism of America. Far from it. Because what I say may probably be reported in America, I will repeat what I said of America in July, 1918. I said this: 'It is moral force which brought the United States to the Allies. She had much to lose in a material sense; she had little to gain in the great things of life and very little in small things. The saying of the Scripture was true. He who would save his life shall lose it. The people of the United States had nothing material to gain because they would lose money, but they would gain something, something far more precious than money, for they had saved the soul of America.'

"The Near East Crisis. 'Now, I come to speak for a moment only of the immediate crisis—our position in the Near East. It is a great misfortune that the Turks should have had the feeling, apart from what is necessary as the result of war, that there was particular hostility toward them. We must, if we can, get rid of that notion. That does not mean that we are not going to be fair with the Greeks also. Let there be no mistake about that. What I hope from this conference is that there might be a settlement which will give real peace in that part of the world and enable us to bring back our troops and cease spending money in these distant regions."

"Relationship to France. 'Our relationship with France must be the keynote of our foreign policy. We really have common aims, and though it may be found that we can not agree—we can make it plain to France that we are her friends; that we realize any breach of understanding between the two countries would be fatal to both, fatal to the world. We can try to get an agreement between the French and ourselves realizing that if we cannot get an agreement there will be chaos in Europe and nobody can tell what is going to happen.

"Friendly Message From Italy. 'I would say one other word. I have received a friendly message from the new heads of the Italian government. I have replied on behalf of the country, reciprocating that friendly message. Do not forget that Italy came into the war at a very critical stage, that she rendered great service, that she suffered greatly and wherever we can show her friendship practically, it is our duty to do so.

"Of the schemes which I have in mind for getting trade improved by increased confidence and by the sense that we are free from sudden alarms and from excursions, the most important is to cut expenditure. Without that there can be no reduction in taxation.

"My friend the new Chancellor of the Exchequer, who has many points of great strength, and you will find him adequate in his task, has the same weakness of saying what he thinks at any time.

"In his speech he indicated that as far as he could judge it would be difficult to do more than balance the budget. I think he has a right to say that. It is easy to make promises. Every opposition, nearly all through my career, has been lavish with them. I know the difficulties, but we will do our best.

"Reduce Administration Cost. 'Taxation, that the Labor party, judging by its manifestoes, thinks is rather a good thing than otherwise, the heavy income tax and all the rest, is not merely a tiresome thing which the people grumble at; it is something which is a tremendous handicap to industry, and if we cannot get rid of some of it, it will be a long time before we get back to normal prosperity in our country.

"What is there to be done? A good deal can be done, and I mean to try, by reducing the cost of administration all around. I think a great deal can be done that way, but expenditure must depend on policy and to what extent we can reduce will depend largely on the sense of security we have throughout the world that there is no danger of warlike operations.

"I realize, so do you, that we must maintain our naval position. We must retain forces adequate for the security of the Empire.

"Better Trade and Industry. 'Mr. Asquith has a very clever daughter—Lady Bonham Carter—and if she is available, she has such a clever way of saying things, I'd be glad to see her in our central office writing leaflets. She said that Lloyd George has St. Vitus dance, and I sleeping sickness. It was very good. They are both bad diseases. Well, I'll try to keep away from them. When I say I want quiet and stability, it does not mean that I am unconscious of the terrible suffering now going on throughout Europe, high cost of living and inadequate housing. It does not mean that we are leaving out what was arranged by the last government. But though there must be no neglect of palliatives in a condition so critical, the real cure must come from better trade and better industry.

"That is my position. I do not come before you with any hope of being able to work miracles. I think we have a capable and sincere government and I shall do what I can to face the difficulties of our position."

"HOUSE OF FREE STATE MINISTER ATTACKED. LONDON, Nov. 2.—The Dublin town house of Richard Mulcahy, Irish Free State Minister of Defence, was attacked tonight by a band of armed men, says a dispatch to The Times. Guards at the gate returned the first of the invaders. One civilian was killed.

VOTERS OF ENGLAND
ENJOY ELECTION DAY

After-Poll Speeches and Attitude of Defeated Candidates of Important Features of Day

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The voters of England seem to get more fun out of election days than the Americans, and everyone is looking forward to a very exciting time in the coming parliamentary races.

It is customary for all the candidates and their families to be present at the central polling places in their boroughs or counties so that they can appear before the populace and speak as soon as the will of the electorate is proclaimed. The spirit in which the unsuccessful accept defeat is always keenly awaited by the assembled voters, because sportsmanship is such an important trait with the British.

Mocked Unmercifully. Defeated candidates who show irritation are always looked upon unmercifully. Another happy feature of election day is that many people of the poorer classes get the only opportunity of their lives to ride in expensive motor cars without paying a cent. This year the suspense over the result of the elections will be over quickly as compared with the old pre-war days. All of the ballots will be cast this time on one day—November 15, and almost the entire membership of the new parliament will be known before the night of the 16th. Previous to the 1918 election the voting and counting always had been spread over several days.

A Balanced Diet

Demand Olive Oil

If you want your food to supply those vital elements which are necessary for health, growth and contentment—don't accept anything but Olive Oil.

During the war it was impossible to import high quality Olive Oil, and the result was a diet of inferior olive oil. This is a wide difference in quality. The place of rich, health-giving Olive Oil, simply because they do not contain the vital nutritive elements found in the indispensable oil of the olive, which for more than 4,000 years has been the favorite food of sturdy men.

New Vittoria's Virgin Olive Oil is back on the market again at practically pre-war prices. And remember this: there is a wide difference in quality. Vittoria's (pronounced "Vee-tor-ee") is the only Olive Oil in Canada that is guaranteed pure. It is quality that counts.

If other oils have disappointed you—then other so-called "Olive Oil" don't deceive you. Get the privilege of getting the best. Taste Vittoria's (pronounced "Vee-tor-ee"). You'll be greatly surprised at the vast difference in quality.

Best grocers sell it at practically pre-war prices. For your own protection do not merely ask for Olive Oil—just say Vittoria's. Try it at our risk—if you are not more than satisfied your grocer will return your money. (Advt.)

SCHEME TO IMPROVE SCHOOL GROUNDS

Metochia Women's Institute Taken Action on Important Matter—Mask Ball to Be Given

METCHOIN, Nov. 1.—The regular monthly meeting of the Metochia Women's Institute was held at Metochia Hall, Mrs. M. Brown, the president, was in the chair. After the usual routine business, a discussion arose regarding the draining of the school grounds. It was decided to take steps immediately to procure an estimate of the cost for the necessary work and, with the sanction of the school board, to go ahead at once.

A letter was read from the school board acknowledging the donation of $10 from the institute for necessary equipment, and also inviting the institute to delegate one member to work with the board and their representatives.

A masquerade ball will be held on November 14 in the Metochia Hall for the purpose of raising funds to carry out the proposed scheme. A committee was formed to make the necessary arrangements and the following people have been asked to be patrons: R. H. Pooley, M.P.P.; Dr. D. W. Brock, Deputy Minister of Agriculture; Mr. F. J. Willis, superintendent of schools. Prizes will be given for the best costume to lady and gentleman, also a prize to the lady and gentleman for the most original costume. Mr. G. Schofield's orchestra will supply the music.

It was proposed also to hold a monthly whist drive and dance every third Thursday of the month, starting on November 23, with cards from 8 to 10 o'clock. Prizes will be given and refreshments will be served during the evening.

An excellent report of the recent conference of Vancouver Island Women's Institute was given by Delegate Mrs. Howard, which was greatly appreciated by the members and which received a vote of thanks.

The president addressed a few words of welcome to the new public health nurse, Miss Kelly, who was present at the meeting for the first time. The meeting then adjourned until the first Wednesday in November, which will be the annual meeting.

As a result of a meeting held at Luxton Hall on October 31, the following hall committee was elected: Mrs. R. Brown, Mrs. F. Holmes, Miss Dyer, Mr. C. Smith, Mr. G. Smith, Mr. F. Holmes. A silver tea set planned for the ladies, to be held at Mrs. Holmes' residence on Wednesday, November 8, at 1:30 p.m., to assist in the project of securing a place for the hall. It is proposed also to form a committee to take charge and arrange for a campaign to raise funds by contribution and entertainments for the same purpose.

NEWS OF LANGFORD

COLWOOD, Nov. 2.—The usual monthly meeting of the W.A. was held yesterday afternoon in the Colwood Hall. The president, Mrs. H. Pearson, was in the chair, and a good number of members were present. The business of the meeting was the planning for a sale of work on December 12. Mrs. Goodall, president of the Goodall were excellent hostesses.

The junior children of Langford School enjoyed a very pleasant hour yesterday afternoon, when their teacher, Miss Sutton, kindly provided Halloween paper and various emblems. The pupils displayed their decorative skill and made pretty hats, bats, witches, etc., which they were allowed to take home to show their parents.

The usual silly pranks were played on Halloween around Langford, i.e., taking off gates, etc., in which, unfortunately, the owners do not see any humor.

The Misses Margaret and Katherine Dower, from Wellington, are visiting their aunt, Miss M. Dick, Goldstream Road.

Probe at Cumberland
CUMBERLAND, Nov. 1.—Members of the Anglican Church choir, who have formed themselves into a Glee Club, gave a very enjoyable Halloween frolic in the Anglican Hall on Tuesday evening. The funds raised will help pay for the new organ. The children, as well as the adults, had a nice time from 8 to 10, playing games such as "Putting the cat's tail on" and "Catching the chicken." The Glee Club rendered some songs suitable for the occasion. At 9 o'clock dancing was commenced and the programme for the rest of the evening. At 11 o'clock, during the moonlight, a ghost came in and stealthily made its way among the standing couple on the floor and a booming noise could be heard. No one needed to be told it was midnight. The hall was beautifully and artistically decorated with yellow and black crepe paper, pumpkins and witch lanterns. A large crowd gathered for the dancing and the much-enjoyed frolic broke up at 1 o'clock.

DANGEROUS FRANK
NANAIMO, Nov. 2.—A Halloween prank which might have had serious results was perpetrated by a number of boys at Ann's Convent, when they raised a window and threw into a room a sack containing a package of lighted firecrackers. The sack rested against a varnished wall, and might have been the means of starting a serious fire, when discovered by one of the Sisters, who extinguished the blast. The police have been notified, and are investigating the matter.

VISITING QUALICUM
QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 31.—Qualicum Beach had an interesting visitor last week in the person of Miss Mabel Lindsay, sister-in-law of a late resident of this district, Mr. Wyndham Waltham. Miss Lindsay went overseas during the war with the C.A.N.C. and was stationed at Le Trepot, France, and afterwards at Orpington, England. She returned in 1919 and has traveled extensively since, visiting Honolulu, California, Mexico, New York, and then up to Edmonton. During all her travels Miss Lindsay has seen no place that has charmed her more than Qualicum Beach, and contemplates taking up her residence here in Mr. Waltham's house.

FANCY DRESS BALL HELD AT DUNCAN

DUNCAN, Nov. 1.—About one hundred and seventy-five people attended the fancy dress ball given last evening in the Agriculture Hall here. Many new costumes were worn and it was a very pretty dance indeed. The hall had been most artistically decorated, carrying out designs and decorations symbolic of Halloween. Mrs. Innes Noad, Mrs. Stuart, Miss Tuto Innes Noad and Mrs. Garrard, with Captain E. G. Williams and Captain Barkley, were largely responsible for the decorative scheme. Maple leaves hung suspended from wires crossing the hall made a novel and effective display. Two huge ghosts, with pumpkin heads, stood as pillars at the steps leading down from the stage, and all around the hall were black cats, owls and all those tokens that usually mark All Hallow's Eve.

Mrs. Barlow, Mr. J. C. Henslowe and Mr. E. B. McNaught, who acted as judges, had a difficult task indeed to allot the prizes. Mrs. A. Price, as an Indian woman, Quamichan Annie, made a most realistic "kitcho" few of her friends even guessed her identity, and her costume throughout was most realistic. As she squatted on the floor in the corner, more than one person was deceived and thought that one of the natives had come in to see the fun. Mrs. Price was awarded first prize for the ladies, while Mr. S. Mathews, in a wonderful shell garb, won the first prize for the gentlemen; while Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jackson, as jazz pianists, won the prize for the best couple.

Excellent music was provided by Mrs. Emily Smith, piano; Mr. J. Burckett, violin; Mr. Kier, saxophone, and Mr. Elliott, horn.
Supper arrangements were catered for by Mrs. Bales. A most delicious and dainty supper was served. The balcony and library were requisitioned for the serving of supper, and had been fitted up with small tables, each of which was centred with a vase of autumn tinted foliage.

LADYSMITH

LADYSMITH, Nov. 2.—The men of St. John's Church will hold a whist drive in the K. of P. Hall on November 16.

A whist drive under the auspices of the Agricultural Society is to be held in the K. of P. Hall this (Thursday) evening, which promises to be of exceptional interest. The prizes offered are most unusual, these being pigs, ducks, butter, potatoes, etc.
The Halloween dance held in the Agricultural Hall Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary, was very successful, everyone apparently enjoying the good music, floor and splendid supper provided for their entertainment. The financial result, however, did not come up to expectations, being about half that usually obtained from this annual event.

There was no meeting of the City Council on Monday evening, there not being a quorum present.
Mrs. Marjorie Johnson, of Vancouver, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Waltham.

Mr. J. M. Savage, general manager of the Canadian Collieries Company, was in the city on Wednesday looking over the company's plant there.

The proposal to extend the limits of the local cemetery by four acres will be heartily approved by the citizens.

Last Tuesday evening the senior class of girls of the Methodist Sunday School entertained the senior boys at a Halloween party in the gymnasium. Various interesting games and contests were indulged in, and after a hearty supper the jolly party dispersed.

POLICE RECORDS
NANAIMO, Nov. 2.—Nineteen cases were dealt with by the Provincial Police during the same month, as follows: Infractions Government Liquor Act, six fined $100; infractions Game Act, four fined $50; infractions Opium and Narcotics Drug Act, one fined $50; wife desertion, 11; Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1; assault, 1; theft, 2; total cases, 19; total fines, $635.

COLWOOD CARD PARTY

COLWOOD, Nov. 2.—An extraordinary coincidence occurred last night when the Colwood Whist Club held its weekly drive. Mrs. Murray carrying off the ladies' first prize, and Miss Agnes Murray the booby, which was exactly what happened the previous week. For the gentlemen, Mr. Enge won the prize, and Mr. T. F. Robinson the booby.

ACTIVITIES AT QUALICUM

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 31.—The Qualicum Beach schools are now equipped with a complete water system, a pipe line having been laid by the Qualicum Beach Water Company across the townsite, supplying all the stores and residences thereon up to the schools. This has proved a great boon generally. Further lines are now being put down to different parts of the district.

Building activities are going on at Qualicum Beach. Mr. A. N. Fraser, proprietor of the Qualicum Beach Garage, is removing from his present quarters and building a new place of business exactly opposite. This will comprise an up-to-date garage and service station. He has also put up a pretty little four-room bungalow adjoining, where he intends to reside.

Mr. E. Sanders is having a meat market built on the townsite, where he intends opening up in the near future with fresh meats and provisions.

Mr. H. F. Pousford is going to put up a large building on his property on the townsite, which is to comprise garage, service station and machine shop, including acetylene welding.

Mr. Poole, on Sunningdale Road, is enlarging his house, putting three additional rooms on.

BOLSHEVIKS ARRANGE VICTORY CELEBRATION

Will Arrest Residents Who Fail to Fly Red Flag at Least a Yard Long

PETROGRAD, Nov. 2.—The fifth annual anniversary of the revolution which swept the Soviets into power will be celebrated throughout Russia next week on a larger scale and with greater splendor than anything of the kind yet attempted by the Bolsheviks. Next Tuesday is the fifth anniversary of the day the Bolsheviks captured the leaders of the Kerensky regime in the Winter palace. Demonstrations will be held in every city and town in Soviet Russia.

Make It Unanimous
Orders have been issued that every house and building must fly a red flag at least a yard long to avoid arrest.

The Soviet Congress, or Third International, which is held annually in conjunction with the anniversary of the revolution, opens Sunday in Petrograd.

Lenine Square
After a two-day session there the delegates will go to Moscow, where they will sit for a week. While the delegates are there, ground will be broken for a new park to be known as Lenine Square, and a cornerstone will be laid for a monument to be built on the spot where an attempt was made to assassinate the Soviet premier.
